PROPHETIC REVELATION

A DAVIDIC VISION

An ancient and faraway place. A land of unmatched history and endless wonder... Faded childhood memories remain, of a glorious city - fascinating and mysterious; and shrouded with the golden haze of eternal promise. The center of the world. The heart of the nations. The birthplace of man's hope for immortality; and the wellspring of our common longing for the divine...

The branches of fruitless trees are tossed to and fro by the unforgiving winds of time. Behold, a barren wilderness; with a distant hope, for the blossoming of a once lush and bountiful land...

She is a city no longer renowned for her beauty, that she should be courted by the children of men. A people trodden underfoot by the wicked; and woefully neglected through the passing of the ages.

A broken city, with a strained look of wariness, from fear of her unknown tomorrows. Ghostly images haunt her dreams, while foreign nations pollute her YAH-forsaken streets...

And yet, a tiny remnant of her sons and daughters arise, to seek the eternal pathways; to renew the glory of her sacred past...

At long last, the faithful children are reuniting with the motherland, in fulfillment of the ancient Promise!

In the name of love and honor, they brave the hardships, face the trials, and embrace the holy burden of deliverance; a perilous path, long since forsaken by countless generations...

Slowly, a faint but heavenly glow spreads across the new horizon.

After endless years of parched plains and naked valleys, an underground river bursts forth with a great refreshing - announcing the Everlasting Age of Jubilee.

A beacon light of hope soon reaches across the Holy Nation, beckoning to the ends of the earth; and a collective exhale echoes through the dawn…

Exceeding joy is now resting upon the masses of the remnant!

The once lifeless trees begin to clap their hands; and new lilies of the field rejoice in heavenly harmony! Then all at once, the ingathered wealth of the nations forever removes the great scorn that so grieved her ancient ruins...

Hear, O Yisrael, and the World: The New City of Davïd is risen!

And soon she will be adorned with the Holy Garments of Praise - with the Majesty and Splendor of a Royal Bride! Surely, her High Places shall teem with great multitudes of her faithful children gathered from afar...

For Behold, the Grand Magnificence of the New Promised Land has become an Everlasting Glory to the Most High, and the Holy One of Yisrael! Sélah.

The City set on a hill far away... The birthplace of a million dreams. An ancient vision of eternal love and peace for all mankind. The New Garden Spot of the Universe. The Kingdom of kingdoms.

Zion.
